James Whitcomb Riley
INDIANAPOLIS.

October 1st,
1915.

Dear Mr. Taylor:

You delight me with your letter and the poem of the "far days." It is beautiful. I should be interested in your memories of me in The American. I hope you will send them to me, care of The Bobbs-Merrill Company. Thanks for the other poem, too, which shows you are still astride old Pegasus. I hope you can ride him to Indianapolis for October the seventh.

With loyal affection,

Your old friend,

James Whitcomb Riley
